Saturday Aug Solar Plate Workshop

Learn A Non-Toxic Etching Technique

Saturday, Aug 28, 2010, 10am-4pm taught by Constance Falconer
 $90 APS members / $100 non-members

Solarplate etching is a recent alternative etching process that uses sunlight or intense artificial light and water instead of the traditional acids and grounds. Constance Falconer, local accomplished printmaker, will demonstrate this innovative approach that is spontaneous and easy, yet produces quality results. Solarplates consist of a ultra violet light sensitized polymer covering a steel backing which can be exposed to various styles of images. Both sun and light box exposures processes will be taught. Once the plates are prepared and developed in water, they may be used for traditional intaglio or relief printing.

Participants are asked to bring drawings/paintings created on acetate or photocopies or computer printouts on transparent film. Transparency images should have good contrast and texture. A limited number of solarplates will be provided; additional plates will be available for purchase. This process is perfect for seasoned printmakers and beginners alike!

This workshop will be taught by Atlanta-based artist Constance Falconer who makes limited edition prints of intaglio etchings, using various techniques such as drypoint, hard and soft grounds, aquatint, lift-ground and solarplates.
